Additional writing ideas - seizing opportunities that arise and keeping writing 'alive'!

Children's writing experiences need not be restricted to their daily phonics and one writing activity a week. Please find below a list of suggestions for 'writing activities' which you might like to encourage to do / they might be interested in doing. The biggest motivation for writing is having a 'purpose'. The following suggestions give you that purpose. Try not to over correct, encourage them to have a go and celebrate their efforts.

Lists	Price list: label and price the items for sale in your shop; melon 5p Shopping list: encourage your child to share what they would like added to your weekly shop; chicken / cat food / glue (they might get through it quickly!!) Activity list: work together to write a list of 'activities' you would like to do this week / books you would like to read / food items you would like to bake Role play lists: If you're a builder, make a list of jobs / materials / If you're a doctor, make a list of 'medicine' you need or write a 'doctor's note', If you're an 'explorer' make a list of all the 'creatures' you found!!
Labels	Label your resources; pens / rubber etc. Label the models or pictures you make; <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>o You can even write a 'sentence' to label a creation; It is a digger</li> </ul> Label a 'map' you've drawn - will it help you find treasure or help you find your way home?
Instructions	Help create some 'instructions' to keep your 'home school' sorted. 'Please put rubbish in the bin'. Write 'instructions' e.g. to teach someone else to make an amazing model like yours!
Messages	Write messages for your child to find and read (like hide and seek) and encourage them to write one back Write a note for a friend and send it to them via 'what's app' Write a birthday card / thank you card / letter / postcard to a friend or relative.
Fiction writing	Create a 'story map' and label the main features Write a story together to 'perform' to another member of your family (on or offline) N.B. You can start by writing down their ideas then encourage them to take more and more ownership, adding in words, captions and sentences
Non-fiction writing	Create a 'non-fiction' book about an area of interest <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>o E.g. Tell me about your favourite animals and what makes them special (an animal a page with labels / captions or sentences)</li> </ul> Draw each train in your train set and write a sentence about them e.g. 'Gordon is blue. / Percy is sad etc.
Internet fun	Log into: https://www.purplemash.com/sch/great-cb22 and access one of the 'writing activities. You could: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>o Create a story</li> <li>o Take your photo using the 'mashcam' and add a caption</li> <li>o Create a non-fiction text about an area of interest</li> </ul>
Picture News	Don't forget to look at the 'suggested writing ideas' on our 'Picture News' each week, there are lots of creative ideas

Additional Reading Ideas - seizing opportunities that arise and keeping reading 'alive'!

There are so many ways to enjoy reading together and many of your children will already have some great ideas of their own or favourite books that they would like to share over and over again. If you would like some more ideas however, please take a look at the ideas and tips below.

Signs out and about	When you're out and about, doing your 'daily exercise', see how many signs you can spot. Road signs, street signs, shop signs and timetables. Read them together with your child.
Den Reading	Build a den or hideout with your child out of dark blankets or sheets. Ask your child to choose some of their books to take into the den to read. Don't forget the torch - it's exciting to read a book by torch light!
Reading to other members of the family	Children love to share reading skills with family members so if you are contacting family (via what's app / face-time or skype!!) share a reading book with them so someone different can say how proud they are hearing your child read. It's a good chance to show off!
Family meal times	Now that you have longer at home, families might spend longer over meal times. You could 'make' and read the menu whilst you are choosing what to eat or read the cereal packet over breakfast. Or if you have 'toys' visiting for a meal then get your child to create name places for each toy!!
Postcards, cards, emails and texts	If you have any, enjoy opening the post together to read Easter cards, birthday cards, or letters from family and friends. Ask family and friends to write your child messages whilst they can't see them in person. Children love to read something addressed to them. Don't forget to send return post too - whether it's snail mail (if you can) or via technology
Home Learning scrapbook	Collect items of interest and stick them all in a scrapbook or write a simple diary. As you stick these items in, chat about your child's choices and favourite things to do. You will have created a book full of happy memories that your child can read again and again. We would also love to share this book with them when we all see each other again.
Cooking your favourite dish	Does your child enjoy cooking? Find a recipe, read the list of ingredients together, read the food labels, and then support your child to read the instructions as you make your favourite recipe.
Playing outside	All children love to play outside. When you're in your garden or out for your daily exercise, don't forget to play some fun games too. As your child is running on the spot or swinging on a swing (if you have one) ask: What does slide begin with? What is a word beginning with t? Spell your name! Give me a word that rhymes with den!
Visit your 'own library'	Children love choosing their own books to read. Remember if the book your child chooses to read is too tricky for them to read independently then read it to them or share the reading. There are more ideas below for internet links if you want some 'fresh' books to share.
Spotter guides	Encourage children to read whilst playing or exploring - Use a nature spotter or create your own for them to tick off when they've found something e.g. 'bee / ant' etc.
Games	BINGO (this works best with at least 2/3 people) - select or write some words on a board / paper and see who crosses off their words first TRICKY WORD HUNT - Hide some words around the house / in the garden for the children to find and read; they can collect a whole set or tick them off on a sheet when they've found them. MORE TRICKY WORDS - Use the powerpoint on our classpage Teaching Tricky Words to choose an activity

Internet Fun	'Real books' are always best, but if you want to broaden the range of reading activities you have available whilst at home, please see the links below.
	Oxford Owl	Visit the Oxford Owl Library which has lots of free eBooks to read, and fun games to play, and there are lots of other good sites to visit too.
	CBeebies	Go to the story time section of the cbeebies website for a range of stories
	Vooks	Read aloud animated stories, currently with one month free https://www.vooks.com/
	Book Trust	Story books to read online
	Purple Mash (Username: intake19 PW: intake19)	Reading activities available via Mini Mash .

Further tips to help:

Tip 1: Ring-fence the time to read

10-15 minutes of reading with your child every day is one of the best ways you can help them with their learning. Aside from the educational benefits, regular story time can also be ten minutes of respite from hectic family life to curl up, read and talk together. Ask questions and discuss tricky vocabulary, but don't be afraid to lose yourselves in a good story too. Helping your child to enjoy reading is an important goal in itself.

Tip 2: Take turns to read

Whatever level of reading fluency your child is at, they'll benefit from both reading aloud to you and hearing you read aloud to them. Reading to an adult is the most important thing children in the early stages of reading can do to develop their word reading. Reading aloud to children is a great way of building their understanding, showing them what expressive reading sounds like and letting them enjoy a story. By both reading and listening, your child gets the best of both worlds, learning more than if they only read to you or listened to you.

Tip 3: Think about the range of books

If children like a particular type of book and that's all they want to read, fine. It won't do them any harm and as they grow older, their tastes will change and they'll move to a different series or type of book. But anything we can do to broaden children's reading palette is a good thing. You could try 'book bingo', where over the time you are at home children are challenged to read with you six different types of book - a 'phonics book', a non-fiction book, some poetry, a picture book, an old favourite and something they wouldn't normally pick up, for example. Ticking each one off with a stamp or sticker can be a very satisfying thing to do!
